

Meet Alyscia Cunningham

Beauty lies not in a flawless complexion, but in the stories that are told by each transitioning line on a woman's face.

Many people define beauty as skin deep, but I've found the beauty in physical and superficial changes that continue throughout the life of a woman.

- Alyscia Cunningham

Alyscia Cunningham is an entrepreneur, author, filmmaker, and photographer who has contributed to the Smithsonian, National Geographic, Discovery Channel and AOL. After the success of her first book, Feminine Transitions, a photography book encompassed with portraits of raw feminine beauty, Cunningham published her second photography book documentary film, I Am More Than My Hair. It includes interviews and of females who've experienced hair loss due to a health-related condition and their journey of self-empowerment to see beauty beyond the media's standards. Her upcoming documentary, Seeing, includes stories of girls and woman who are visually impaired.

Alyscia is the Founder of Her House Media and also one of the FrontLine Voices for Stop the Beauty Madness, a campaign focused on changing the dynamics of beauty globally. Her work has been featured on The Huffington Post, Cosmopolitan, The Washington Post, Fox 5, ABC 7 and Proud2BMe.

Her goal is to continuing producing documentary films and photo books. With the completion and direction provided through the Horror/Psychological Thriller workshop with Sundance Institute, Alyscia also plans to write and direct Horror films.

Alyscia invites you to view her video introductions to Feminine Transitions, and I Am More Than My Hair. To learn more about Alyscia and her work, visit Alyscia.com.

Alyscia Cunningham Images

(301) 244-9658

www.Alyscia.com

info@Alyscia.com